PRESIDENT'S CORNER

LOOKING FORWARD TO 1979:

Early this month a conversation between Walter Cronkite and Eric Severeid was telecast on CBS. The first comment I heard about it later was "they are so pessimistic!"

It can be disconcerting to hear two highly respected journalists admit that they don't know whether this country will fare very well in 1979. Our problems are immense and solutions may demand more than Americans are willing to provide. Yet is this acknowledgment pessimism?

The big booster-rooters often suggest by their self-induced enthusiasm that we can encourage ourselves into paradise. Their unending pep talks are boring to the point of paralysis. Even the half truth that doom can be a self-fulfilling prophecy loses its punch three days after Halloween. Personally, I find the admissions of Severeid and Cronkite refreshing and encouraging. Confidence based upon quick and easy solutions, inflated expectations, and dogmatic claims to omniscience frighten me even more than the troubles of our times.

Naive optimism whistles in the dark. It is wishful thinking masquerading as confidence. Self-deception in the face of danger is really the antithesis of genuine optimism. Unvarnished realism, on the other hand, is usually expressed by basically confident analysts. Even somber diagnoses of the human condition reflect, it seems to me, combinations of optimism and courage. They couple the assumption that opportunity continues with a willingness to risk and venture.

I expect life to be a risk, a big risk. Maybe I've read too many stories about Abraham and Moses who ventured, not knowing where the future would lead them. They didn't even expect to know how the story would end before they embarked. They exercised reliable optimism, not because they felt immune to trouble, but because they trusted in something beyond themselves. They were optimistic, not because they counted on success, but because they knew that personal adversity and even failure can be transformed by history if guided by providence.

Courage is not so much confidence in one's personal prowess as it is the willingness to face an unknown future. Reliable optimism springs not from self-sufficiency or a sense of adequacy but from courage coupled with faith. Pessimism and despair overwhelm us not because risks and problems have never been so great (they probably have), but because we no longer see opportunity in those risks and problems. Reliable optimism is never an underestimation of the dangers and threats. It is courage reinforced by a vision of ever-present opportunity. The issue is not how rough the sledding gets; the issue is whether we have the courage to peer into the dark.

$500,000 GIFT LIFTS CAMPAIGN FOR GEORGE R. LAMADE GYM

The Partners in Progress Campaign received a substantial financial increment and the proposed gymnasium a name January 17 at a Leaders Dinner held for approximately 75 prominent Williamsport area residents in Pennington Lounge.

The major development in the drive to raise $3,700,000 for a new physical education and recreation center came with the announcement by John F. Person, Jr., a member of the Board of Trustees, acknowledging a contribution of $500,000 from the Williamsport Foundation with a suggestion that the gymnasium in the proposed center be named The George R. Lamade Gymnasium in honor of a former outstanding community leader who died in 1965. Person made the announcement in a dual capacity as a member of the Leadership Gifts Committee of the campaign and as chairman of the Williamsport Foundation.

The Board of Trustees in an earlier meeting had unanimously approved the suggested name for the new gymnasium.

The late George R. Lamade, a lifelong resident of Williamsport who received an honorary Doctor of Letters Degree from Lycoming in 1957, was publisher of Grit Publishing Company, Williamsport, at the time of his death. He was an outstanding community leader throughout his adult life and supported many progressive civic projects which he believed would aid in the development and growth of the city.

The $500,000 from the foundation increased the total from the major advanced gifts announced recently in the Partners in Progress Campaign to $760,000. Two large contributions revealed previously include $200,000 from the Pew Memorial Trust and one of $60,000 from the late Walter J. Heim, a member of the Board of Trustees at the time of his death in 1978.

The advanced gifts phase of the campaign is expected to continue for several more months before the public portion of the campaign is launched at mid-year.

Building and Grounds Committee and recommendation to accept or reject the bids will be made to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees for final action at a meeting later this month. He said the Executive Committee will also determine whether the gymnasium will be a two or three-station unit.

A definite timetable for groundbreaking and construction of the new building is expected to be announced soon after the meeting of the Executive Committee, if the committee approves the awarding of a contract. The tentative target dates are April or May for the official groundbreaking and completion of construction is anticipated by September, 1980. The proposed building will be located south of the present gymnasium on the former site of Old Main and the present Eveland Hall, which will be razed.

Plans call for 64,034 square feet of flexible space in the building and will include regulation-size courts for basketball, indoor tennis, volleyball and badminton along with related facilities. Also to be included are areas for wrestling, gymnastics, modern dance and intramural sports. In addition, there will be a regulation-size, six-lane swimming pool with a 200-seat gallery for spectators. The main gymnasium is expected to accommodate approximately 2,000 spectators.

LOW BID OF $2,789,000 RECEIVED FOR NEW GYM

Bids from nine general contractors were submitted to the college for construction of the proposed physical education and recreation center and school officials were elated when the low bid of $2,789,000 by Bloom Penn Contractors of Bloomsburg was considerably less than anticipated.

The figure includes a base bid of $2,409,000 plus six alternate bids of $380,000 for optional facilities, with most of the alternates to cover the cost of increasing the size of the gymnasium from a two to a three-station unit. A station is the equivalent of one basketball court. Bids ranged from the low of $2,789,000 by Bloom Penn to a high of $3,170,500 submitted by S. G. Mastriani Company, Scranton.

Dr. Frederick E. Blumer, president of Lycoming, said the bids will be studied by the

GRANT OF $4,500 AWARDED FOR NEW CHAPEL CENTER

A grant of $4,500 has been awarded to the Lycoming College United Campus Ministry by the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, Pittsburgh, to help finance construction of a physical center for ministry activities and programs in the basement of Clarke Chapel.

The Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, with assets of $3,750,000, supports organizations located within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with preference given to Western Pennsylvania. Grants are awarded primarily to religious institutions engaged in community services, church-related schools, and colleges and theological seminaries.

The $4,500 grant from the foundation will supplement funds provided by the Bishop of Scranton to finance the construction of a worship center to be used for Roman Catholic liturgy. It will also be available for other ecumenical religious services.

Construction of the center is expected to begin next spring. The area to be utilized for the worship complex is presently occupied by the scenery workshop of the college theatre department. The workshop will be relocated after completion of a campus facility utilization survey being conducted in correlation with the proposed construction this year of a new physical education and recreation center.

The ministry center will include the chapel and a meeting area with kitchen facilities for social events. A second area adjacent to the workshop center will be converted into a lounge-reading area, storage space for chapel equipment, a robing room, and a private area for use by the college chaplains for counseling and the Sacrament of Reconciliation.

Two small adjacent rooms will be used for a clerical function and for records, files, student committee headquarters and office space for the volunteer programs.

The Lycoming College United Campus Ministry serves students of all faiths and denominations, as well as those who have no specific identification with a church. Services are provided by chaplains for each faith and denomination with significant representation among the students. Chaplains have been appointed by the college, in cooperation with local churches, to serve students who are Roman Catholic, United Methodist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Episcopalian and Baptist.

Chemistry Department Receives $1,500 for Spectrophotometer

A grant of $1,500 has been awarded to the college chemistry department by the Spectroscopy Society of Pittsburgh to help finance purchase of a new atomic absorption spectrophotometer to be used for the analysis of trace levels of metallic species.

Dr. David A. Franz, associate professor of chemistry, said the awards for spectroscopy-related projects are made annually by the society on the basis of proposals submitted by more than 50 colleges and universities in the tri-state area of Pittsburgh. Other recipients this year included Davis and Elkins, Hiram, Juniata, Marietta, Muskingum and Washington and Jefferson.

Dr. and Mrs. Franz were guests of the society at a dinner meeting in Pittsburgh in December when the check for $1,500 was presented to Dr. Franz.

THREE ENDING SERVICE HONORED AT DINNER

Two members of the college faculty and one from the medical staff who will retire during the current academic year were honored at the annual Christmas dinner in the school dining room.

Cited for their 63 combined years of service to Lycoming were Mrs. Lee F. Barnes, associate professor, library; Nelson V. Phillips, assistant professor of physical education, and Mrs. David M. Burket, the college nurse. Each was presented with a gift by Dr. Frederick E. Blumer, president of the college, and remembrances of their years at Lycoming were given by Dr. Morton A. Fineman, professor of physics; Jack C. Buckle, dean of student services, and Bruce L. Swanger, director of public relations.

Mrs. Barnes, who has been on the library staff since 1959, retired at the end of the fall semester. She is a graduate of U.C.L.A. music.

and received her master of library science degree from Drexel University. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes are making their retirement home in Naples, Florida.

Phillips, who has also been on the staff since 1959, is a graduate of Springfield College. He has been the coach of both the Warrior soccer and tennis teams for a number of years and early in his years at Lycoming also coached the basketball team. Mrs. Burket joined the staff as a nurse in the infirmary in 1956. She is a graduate of Hamot Hospital School of Nursing. Both Mrs. Burket and Phillips will retire at the end of the 1978-79 academic year.

Also on the program were a Christmas message presented by Dr. Blumer and an instrumental quintet comprised of Mrs. Sally Nagel and four students, Lorna Wanner, Ruth Gustafson, Barbara Williams and Virginia Stordard. The group presented Christmas Morning Suite, a medley of five carols, directed by Dr. David N. Jex, assistant professor of

“Peer Gynt” Finalist in Festival Competition

The Lycoming College Arena Theatre production of “Peer Gynt” has been chosen as one of the five finalists from Region XII (Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York) to participate in the American College Theatre Festival to be held in January at Pennsylvania State University.

The winner of the competition at Penn State will be invited to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D. C., in April to compete against finalists from other regions from throughout the United States.

In addition to selection as one of the five groups to compete at the regional level, Lycoming also had two students, Mark E. Abram, of Newtown Square, and Mark A. Albright, of Altoona, nominated as candidates for the Irene Ryan Acting Scholarship of $500 to be awarded through an additional process during the festival. The winner of the individual acting scholarship will also be entered in the national festival at the Kennedy Center in April to compete against entrants from other regions for a $2,000 scholarship. The scholarships were established by Irene Ryan, who played the part of Grandma on the Beverly Hillsbillies television show.

A third Lycoming student, Glean E. McCreary, of Montoursville, also had a critique of “Peer Gynt” originally published in The Spectator, the Lycoming student newspaper, selected for entry in the criticism competition at the regional festival.

Dr. Robert F. Falk, chairman of the theatre department at Lycoming and director of the play, said being chosen to participate in the festival “is a singular honor and one of which we are very proud. Lycoming has a wide reputation for plays of the highest quality and artistic excellence despite its small size.”

Participation in the upcoming festival will mark the fourth time in 10 years a play produced by the college theatre department has been chosen to enter the regional competition. The five finalists from each region are selected by judges who evaluate the plays while they are being presented as part of the regular productions during the fall semester.

“Peer Gynt,” a poetic drama by Henrik Ibsen, was produced at Lycoming in early December. Other productions and schools entered in the festival include “Our Town,” Muhlenberg College; “Shadowbox,” Behrend College of Penn State; “The Summer of the Seventeenth Doll,” Hofstra University, and “Eccentricities of a Nightingale,” Adelphi University.

Meet Lycoming's Trustees . . .

Herman T. Schneebeli

HERMAN T. SCHNEEBELI in June will mark his 14th year of uninterrupted service to Lycoming College as a member of the Board of Trustees.

Schneebeli, who retired from the national political arena at the end of 1976 after serving more than 16 years as congressman from the 17th District of Pennsylvania, is presently a member of the Leadership Gifts Committee for the Partners in Progress campaign, the drive to raise funds to finance construction of a new physical education and recreation center on campus. He was the ranking Republican member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee when he ended his political career.

The former congressman is a native of Lancaster, Pa., but has lived in Williamsport since 1939 when he became the Gulf Oil distributor in Williamsport, a position he still holds. He graduated from Mercersburg Academy and attended Dartmouth College where he received both the bachelor of arts and master of business administration degrees.

Schneebeli, after serving 44 months as a captain in the U.S. Army Ordnance Division during World War II, returned to Williamsport where he became deeply involved in community and church affairs. He is a member of Trinity Episcopal Church, Williamsport, and was a vestryman for a number of years prior to his election to Congress in 1960.

His community service during his years as a resident of Williamsport includes memberships on the boards of the Young Women's Christian Association, the Williamsport Hospital, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Williamsport School District. He has also participated in fund drives for the Lycoming United Way, the Y.W.C.A., and the Williamsport Hospital. He is a member of various service and fraternal organizations, the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and is a director of the Fidelity National Bank of

Choir To Appear on National Radio Program

Members of the Lycoming College Concert Choir were to begin rehearsals this month in preparation for three concerts which will be presented in 1980 on the Protestant Hour, a nationwide radio program with an estimated audience of 10,000,000.

Although listeners of the weekly one-hour broadcast will not hear the concerts until mid-1980, rehearsals were to start soon after students returned from the holiday-semester break in January to prepare for the recordings of the three concerts prior to the end of the 1978-79 spring term.

Producers of the program work at least one year in advance, and Dr. Fred M. Thayer, assistant professor of music and director of the choir, said the recording staff from the CBS Radio Network will be on campus soon after the spring break in March to tape the musical portion of the three programs. The 62-voice choir will sing four hymns, three responses, and one anthem during each of the broadcasts, which will be aired on May 25, June 22, and July 20, 1980. United Methodist Bishop Roy Nichols will preach the sermons to be presented as part of each program.

Lycoming College was chosen to participate in three of the United Methodist Series of programs after auditioning in competition with other choirs several months ago. Dr. Frederick E. Blumer, president of Lycoming, was notified of the selection of the choir by David M. Abernathy, executive director of the Joint Communications Committee of The United Methodist Church. The Protestant Hour is co-sponsored by The United Methodist, Episcopal, Lutheran and Presbyterian denominations.

Pennsylvania.

In 1977, in recognition of his community service, Schneebeli was given the Meritorious Achievement Citation for Outstanding Community Service by the Chamber of Commerce, and last year the new federal building constructed in Williamsport was named The Herman T. Schneebeli Federal Office Building in his honor. He is married to the former Mary Louise Meyer, of Bellefonte, a graduate of Hood College. They have two married daughters, Marta and Susan.

John E. Person, Jr.

JOHN E. PERSON, JR., a member of the Lycoming College Board of Trustees since 1970, is presently serving on both the Leadership Gifts Committee for the Partners in Progress campaign and the board Executive Committee.

Person, a lifetime resident of Williamsport, is a graduate of Dickinson College, Rochester Institute of Technology and the Babson Business College. He has been associated since 1946 with the Sun-Gazette Company, publishers of a daily newspaper in Williamsport, and is now president of the firm.

Person entered military service in 1942 after graduation from college and rose from private to captain in the infantry before receiving his honorable discharge in 1946. Active in both church and community affairs for many years, he is a member of the Pine Street United Methodist Church, which he has served as a member of the official board, as a trustee and as financial secretary.

His service to the community through participation in various civic organizations as a member and officer has been long and extensive. He is presently on the boards of the Williamsport Foundation, of which he is chairman; the Young Women's Christian Association, the Williamsport Hospital, the Lycoming Housing Corporation, the Lycoming Foundation and is a member of the Williamsport Home Advisory Committee.

He has also been active in United Fund drives during the years and has served on boards of the Council of Community Services, the Williamsport School District, the United States Selective Service, Family and Children Services, Lycoming County Chapter of the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America, and the Williamsport-Lycoming Chamber of Commerce.

Person is married to the former Charlotte Tepel, a graduate of Dickinson Junior College in 1938. They have four children, John, Michael, Thomas and David.

January Graduates

Twenty-two seniors have completed all degree requirements and were awarded their degrees on January 1, 1979. No formal commencement is held for January graduates and their diplomas are mailed to them in approximately six weeks.

INJURIES COULD DELAY 200th WHITEHILL WIN

Lycoming's wrestling squad welcomed the long four-week holiday-semester break to recuperate from numerous injuries which had sidelined a number of the grapplers during early-season competition and which may delay coach Budd Whitehill's reaching a distinguished milestone in his coaching career—200 wins as a college wrestling coach.

Despite the absence of several veteran wrestlers, the Warriors easily topped King's, 32-6, in the only dual meet prior to the holiday-semester break. They also finished fourth and eighth, respectively, in the strong Bloomsburg State College and Lock Haven State College tournaments. Lycoming was the only Division III team entered in either tournament. A second dual meet with Mansfield scheduled for December 14 was changed to January 29 because of final exams at Lycoming.

Budd Whitehill

Unless the injured wrestlers fail to recuperate or the Warriors are unexpectedly upset in dual meets they normally would be expected to win, Whitehill could achieve a feat sometime in January only a relatively few wrestling coaches have attained in college ranks. The only coach the Warrior wrestlers have had since the sport was introduced in 1956, Whitehill began the season with a 197-

95-1 record, and adding the win against Kings, needs only two more victories to reach the coveted 200-victory mark.

During the span of 22 years, Whitehill's teams have had only two losing seasons while compiling the 197-95-1 record. The fine won-lost mark becomes even more impressive when considering the tough schedule of recent years when approximately half of the teams the Warriors have faced have been from Division I schools. The Warriors have not lost to a Division III team since 1974-75, and for the last two years the Blue and Gold wrestlers have been champions of the Middle Atlantic Conference. The string of 31 consecutive wins over opponents from their own division goes back to a close 21-19 loss to Elizabethtown in 1974-75 during one of the two years Lycoming has recorded a losing season (9-10). The other (2-4) came in the first year of competition in 1956-57.

None of Whitehill's team have ever been undefeated, although both the 1961-62 and the 1962-63 squads came close. The 1961-62 team compiled the best record in the 22-year history of the sport at Lycoming by winning 11 meets while losing only one, and the following year the Warriors compiled a fine 10-1 mark to go on record as the only two teams to come within one victory of marking up an undefeated season. The one tie on the Lyco record came in 1973-74 when the Warriors and the University of Maryland battled to a 15-15 stalemate in a quadrangular meet at College Park, Md. A large number of Whitehill's wrestlers have captured Middle Atlantic Conference and national championships during his 22-year tenure at Lycoming.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL DEBUT DELAYED

The debut of women's basketball as a varsity sport at Lycoming was delayed until mid-January when the opening game with Wilkes on December 12 had to be cancelled because of a mix-up in the schedule. The contest at Wilkes was to have been the only game prior to the long holiday-semester break, and the women were scheduled to make their delayed debut at home on January 16 against Susquehanna. The game was the first of 11 to be played before ending the season at King's on February 22.

Veterans Spark Swimmers To Best Start in Years

Excellent early-season performances prior to the long semester-holiday break by several returning veterans, including Glenn Klages, Frank Bartuski and Robert Lewis, all seniors, and Mark Fultz, a junior, sparked the Lyco swim team to its best start in recent years.

Although the swimmers managed only one win in three meets before the four-week break until mid-January, both of the losses were by comparatively close scores and one more victory in an individual event in the 45-41 loss to Ursinus could have turned the defeat into a win. The Warriors were scuttled by Dickinson, 56-38, in the opening meet and closed out the first part of the season prior to the break with a convincing 53-24 victory over Elizabethtown.

Versatility has been a key factor in the good showing of coach Dave Hair's undermanned swimming team in the early season. Hair has been forced to interchange his swimmers in various events because of lack of personnel, and several have come through with unexpectedly good performances competing outside their specialties.

Louise Anne Caligiuri

Duquesne Graduate Appointed Assistant Student Services Dean

Louise Anne Caligiuri, a graduate of Duquesne University, has been named assistant dean of student services at Lycoming to fill a vacancy created when Douglas J. Keiper resigned last September to accept an appointment as assistant director of admissions.

Miss Caligiuri, who graduated in 1976 from Duquesne with a bachelor of science degree in business administration, was assistant director of financial aid at her alma mater before accepting the position at Lycoming. She had been appointed to that post in November, 1977, after receiving her master of science in education at Duquesne. She had also served as a graduate assistant in the office of the dean of student services while working on her advanced degree.

Miss Caligiuri is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority; Phi Chi Theta, professional business fraternity; Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership society; and Lambda Sigma, sophomore honor society. She received the Duquesne University Senior Award for Outstanding Service and was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities and to Outstanding Young Women in America.

CAMPUS NOTES

ROBERT A. ZACCARIA, biology department, has been invited to serve on the health education subcommittee of the Susquehanna Economic Development Association Health Advisory Committee. The subcommittee provides review and comment on health education and health-manpower project applications submitted to S.E.D.A.-C.O.G. for funding.

DAVID J. RIFE, English department, has been notified that his essay, "Hamilton Wright Mahie to R. W. Emerson: An Unpublished Letter and a Debt of Influence," has been accepted for publication by The American Transcendental Quarterly.

ROGER D. SHIPLEY, art department, has been informed that one of his sculptures has been accepted into an invitational "Plastics and Fibers" exhibition at the Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia. Twenty-two artists are represented in the show, which opened in January and will continue through March 3, 1979.

KEITH GOETTING and PETER BAXTER, majors in Near East culture and archeology, presented a slide-illustrated lecture on "Historical Peterson: An Archeological Investigation of an Industrial City" at a regular meeting of the Library Forum in the lower lounge of the library.

Basketball Record 4-5 Nearing Halfway Point

The Lycoming basketball team opened the season with two victories, both in Hilltop Gym, before playing seven consecutive games on foreign courts where the Warriors lost five of the seven contests for a 4-5 record approaching the halfway point of a 22-game schedule.

Coach Dutch Burch's engers began the season with a 79-64 win over Lock Haven State College and a 90-74 thumping of Juniata in a Middle Atlantic Conference game before dropping four straight on the road to Scranton, 77-70; Wilkes, 62-60 in overtime; Navy, 94-70, and Widener, 81-59, in the opening round of the Widerer Christmas Tournament. The Warriors broke the losing streak by capturing the consolation championship of the tournament with a 72-60 defeat of Swarthmore. The Warriors also finished third in the Flying Dutchman Tournament at Lebacon Valley when they trounced York College, 74-58, after losing to Susquehanna, 60-56, in the opening game.

The two tournaments served as warm-ups for the tough race ahead for a spot in the MAC playoffs. The Warriors face an uphill battle to repeat or improve last year's second-place finish. The Northern Division of the conference has been divided into two sections this year, with the two top positions in each of the sections eligible for the playoffs. The Wilkes and Scranton losses dropped the Warriors to a 1-2 MAC mark, and 10 of the remaining 13 games on the schedule are conference contests. Fourteen games were played under last year's league structure, and the Warriors' second-place finish came on a 9-5 record.

DOROTHY HAYS MATHLAND, lives in Hallowell, ME. She spent last year teaching Title I Reading and Math in a one room schoolhouse. She had an enormous class of 28 children grades one through eight. She said it was a very unique experience and it was not unusual to be called out of class to round up someone's livestock or to give a ride to the children that a mountain lion had crossed the yard. This year she is working on a new IV incentive program to obtain a resource room and current library. She and her husband, Jim, and their three sons live on a 16 acre remote site. They are 27 miles from town. Their boys are learned to give injection and apply first aid to all the animals, especially the ones who would rather walk on their deck than in the pasture. She says life there is much different than "Little House on the Prairie" but she loves it and feels the scenery is about the closest thing to Heaven.

STEVEN HULSHANDER and his friend Clyde DeKey have a record of performing their own compositions. Since Steve had so many friends who enjoyed his music, we provide the following information from the publicity material with information that he has to add a record!

WE MEET!

Do you remember Steve and Clyde? They were two teenagers who used to travel throughout the Wilmington College circuit promoting various acts on Sunday, between 1981 and 1984. Steve Hulshander and Clyde DeKey could be found at many Methodist churches performing both music and providing inspirational messages. Now they are grown men. Clyde is a U.S. Air National Guard and Steve is a school teacher in Wilmington, Pa.

How do you remember them and myself then. I have good news for you. This past summer Steve and Clyde got together once again. They conducted a worship service at Christ Church Episcopal in the past August and later, with the help of some friends, they cut a record called "Singsong". Records. The album is available now. Both of them have promised that they will be at our prayers here in Dunlap.

These music men still fresh and youthful with heads a touch more mature. It would an impression to all those who hear it. I wish them many more years together.

Information on the album can be requested by writing to Stephen Hulshander, 750 Mount Airy, Wilmington, Pa. 17370. For copies send $1.00 plus $1.00 for shipping, handling and post in the above address.

50% of all profits will be designated for the Dominican Republic Adolescent Support Program.
